

Reflection on Psalm 73

Father, You alone are True Light.
Only as we see You does the world come into focus.

When we lose sight of You – when our focus sinks to self – all we see is distorted.

The result is fear,
doubt,
envy, and anxious grasping.

Reality now revolves around us,
not You.

We begin to see life through a lens of unbelief, and as we do, the unbelievers' way of life begins to make sense.

We start to share their values and their desires.

O Father, as I turn my eyes back to You,
I see the truth in all its glorious beauty:

You are the truth.

I see life at its wondrous best:

You are life.

As I look to You, it is like looking into a mirror:
my own image begins to change.

I start to reflect Your love,
Your peace,
Your holiness,
Your glory (2 Corinthians 3:18).

You are pure goodness.

You are life's beginning and goal and richest reward.

Your nearness is our highest good.
